Manager of Landscape Architecture & Urban Planning

Matt Gullo is a planning and landscape architecture professional whose career bridges large-scale visioning with detailed design execution. He holds a bachelor's degree in Landscape Architecture from Clemson University and a master's degree in Urban Planning and Policy from the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Guided by the belief that great design begins at the macro scale and evolves into thoughtful, human-centered details. Matt has developed a passion for creating master plans that are data-driven, community-oriented, visionary, and innovative. His work provides clients with clear and achievable pathways toward implementation, ensuring that planning efforts translate into successful, real-world outcomes.

As a landscape architect, Matt is dedicated to connecting buildings with the land through adaptive circulation systems, sustainable strategies, and visually compelling aesthetics. He values design solutions that not only function but also elevate the character of the built environment.

Outside of his professional work, Matt enjoys spending time outdoors, tending to his home research garden, and traveling with his family to explore new places and experiences.
